

orig. Institute for Defense Analysis

Who's News

Gen. Taylor Will Head Defense Analysis Group

General Maxwell D. Taylor (USA-ret.) has been appointed president of the Institute for Defense Analysis, a non-profit research organization headquartered in Arlington and sponsored by 12 universities.

Also announced was the appointment of Gordon J. F. MacDonald as vice president of IDA for research.

Taylor will succeed J. P. Ruina, who is returning to Massachusetts Institute of Technology as professor of electrical engineering and vice president for special laboratories.

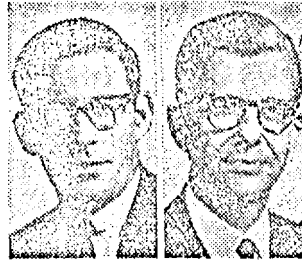

MacDonald is currently professor of geophysics and chairman of the Department of Planetary and Space Sciences at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Both IDA appointments are effective in September.

Madeline Loy Dunn has been elected assistant comptroller of the First National Bank of Washington. She has worked for the bank since 1945 in proof, credit, savings and auditing departments.

Lee Campbell, Washington representative of the Institute of American Poultry Industries, has been elected chairman of The Food Group, an informal conference of about 80 executives and representatives of associations related to food industries.

Albert B. Kelley has been appointed transportation and communications manager for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States effective June 27. He is presently with the Interstate Commerce Commission as special assistant to Vice Chairman William H. Tucker.

Kelley

Godfrey

Richard C. Godfrey has been named a vice president of Loew's Theaters and Hotels. A native of Washington, Godfrey was associated with the International Basic Economy Corp. for eight years.

William G. Stauffer has been promoted to assistant manager of the Hechinger's Rockville store. He was assistant to the buyer of lumber and building materials.

William E. Gardner has been appointed regional director of agencies for Volunteer State Life Insurance Co., with offices in Arlington.

Campbell